

STRATEGIC BRAND GUIDE • v1.0 • 2026

LAKEFRONT BREWERY.

Handcrafted Happiness since 1987.

Born in Riverwest. Raised all over.

PREPARED BY

[YOUR AGENCY]

A working manual for everyone who touches the brand.

WHO IT'S FOR

The Lakefront in-house team. The agency partner. Wholesalers, distributors, and any vendor producing work in the brand's name.

WHAT IT COVERS

Strategy, audience, voice, visual identity, portfolio architecture, application standards, and a forward-looking roadmap.

HOW TO USE IT

Reference it before kicking off creative. Use it to onboard new partners. Treat it as living — update it as the brand evolves.

What's in here.

01	Context	The brief, the challenge, the approach
02	Foundation	Mission, values, brand pillars, positioning
03	Audience	Who we're brewing for, and why it matters now
04	Verbal Identity	Tagline system, voice, tone, sample copy
05	Visual Identity	Logo, color, typography, photography, signature devices
06	Brand Architecture	How the portfolio fits together
07	Application	Packaging, sell sheets, social, web, environment
08	Strategic Recommendations	What we'd do next — and why
09	Roadmap	90 days, 6 months, 12 months

SECTION 01

Context.

The brief, the business challenge, and how we approached this work.

The brief — in their words.

We've engaged [the agency] again to help with branding and marketing for our two biggest sellers, Riverwest Stein and IPA. Both have been losing sales since 2018.

— LAKEFRONT BREWERY LEADERSHIP

Two flagships. One trend line.

SINCE

2018

Riverwest Stein and the house IPA — Lakefront's two biggest sellers — have been on a steady decline.

WHY IT MATTERS

These are the brand to most drinkers.

Riverwest Stein is the flagship. The IPA carries the most-named style category. They define the brand at shelf.

Category context has shifted.

Hazy IPA, seltzer, low-/no-alcohol, and THC beverages have all eaten share of throat since 2018.

The fix is brand-led, not just liquid-led.

The beer didn't break. The shelf changed around it. That's a brand and marketing problem.

How we built this guide.

01

AUDIT

Reviewed the existing brand asset library, packaging system, sell sheets, posters, web, social, and the brewery's own published values.

02

LISTEN

Read Lakefront's mission and values in their own words. Pulled voice samples from packaging, web, social, and event collateral.

03

CODIFY

Translated what we found into a written system — strategy, voice, visuals, architecture — so future work stays consistent without guesswork.

04

RECOMMEND

Layered strategic recommendations on top, focused on the two-flagship problem and the portfolio opportunities surrounding it.

SECTION 02

Foundation.

The mission, values, and pillars that hold everything else up.

OUR MISSION

Creating natural, sustainable, innovative food and beverages
while celebrating Milwaukee hospitality to our visiting guests.

— Lakefront Brewery, official mission statement

Eight values. Their words, not ours.

Lakefront publishes these on its own About page. We carry them forward unchanged — they are the brand's stated character.

HARD WORK

Make an earnest effort. Best beer, best service.

DEPENDABILITY

People rely on us — beer, service, support.

FUN

When people interact with us, we want them smiling.

APPROACHABILITY

Down-to-earth, humble, easy to grab a beer with.

LOCAL

Born in Riverwest. Grateful to be a Milwaukee icon.

STEWARDSHIP

Recycled materials. Clean river. Solid neighbor.

INNOVATION

First gluten-free beer. First organic brewery. First B Corp brewery in Wisconsin.

INCLUSIVITY

Equal access to opportunity. Bring your whole self to work.

Four pillars. Every brief should ladder to one.

01

RIVERWEST ROOTS

Lakefront is from a place — a hard-working Milwaukee neighborhood — and names beers after that place. The brand belongs to a city and a block, not to a marketing department.

02

PIONEERING, NOT POSTURING

Forty years of industry firsts: first organic brewery, first gluten-free beer, first all-Wisconsin beer, first Wisconsin B Corp brewery. Quiet pride, not loud novelty.

03

INDEPENDENT & FAMILY-BUILT

Two brothers, a former bakery, used dairy equipment. Still locally owned. The underdog story that anchors the brand against macro and conglomerate craft.

04

A GOOD TIME IS THE POINT

Laverne & Shirley sing-along on the tour. Polka and a fish fry on Friday. Beer is supposed to be fun. Take the beer seriously, never take ourselves too seriously.

Where we play, why it works.

FOR drinkers who believe what they drink should mean something — where it's from, how it's made, who's behind it — LAKEFRONT BREWERY is the independent Milwaukee brewery that has been quietly setting the standard for craft since 1987 — BECAUSE we don't chase trends. We start them, and then we keep brewing.

Internal positioning statement — not a tagline, not external copy.

SECTION 03

Audience.

Four lenses on who we're brewing for, and which one is the priority right now.

Four audiences. Different jobs.

CORE

Milwaukee Loyalists

Locals who think of Lakefront as their brewery. They buy Riverwest Stein because it's Riverwest Stein. The risk is taking them for granted.

PRIORITY

Lapsed 2018 Buyers

Drinkers who used to buy the flagship and IPA but drifted to hazy, seltzer, or something newer. The strategic priority for this engagement.

GROWTH

Low-Cal / Low-ABV Seekers

Calorie-aware drinkers who still want flavor. Riverwest Stein NA and the broader NA portfolio speak here. Crossover with the seltzer-drifters.

NATIONAL

Gluten-Free Drinkers

Out-of-state, often first encountering Lakefront via a wholesaler or grocery aisle. They need credentials more than they need lore.

Lapsed buyers are the brief.

THEY DIDN'T

LEAVE

The shelf changed around them. Hazy IPA, seltzer, and low-calorie options arrived; Riverwest Stein and the IPA stayed put.

WHAT THEY NEED FROM THE BRAND

A reason to come back.

Not a new flavor — a reason. Position. Story. A point of view that didn't exist when they walked away.

Permission to be the kind of drinker they are now.

They drink less. They care about calories, ABV, and what the brand stands for. Lakefront's NA, GF, and B Corp credentials all play here.

The same dependability that made them loyal.

Don't repaint the can to chase 25-year-olds. Repaint it to remind 35-year-olds why they liked it in the first place.

SECTION 04

Verbal Identity.

How Lakefront sounds — and how to keep it sounding like itself.

Three lines. One system.

Lakefront's verbal identity isn't one tagline — it's three lines doing different jobs. They work together. Don't collapse them into one.

BRAND STAMP

Handcrafted Happiness

The signature mark. Appears on packaging, the top of every can, merchandise, and as a treatment in its own right. Treat as a logo lockup, not a sentence.

POSITIONING

Born in Riverwest. Raised all over.

The brand-level positioning line. Use on web hero, brand-anthem video, master sell sheet, brewery photography. Establishes place + reach.

HEADLINE LOCKUP

Handcrafted Happiness since 1987.

Combined treatment for credentials moments — anniversary, founder story, tour, B Corp narrative. The line that does the work in long-form copy.

Five attributes. Always all five.

Lakefront sounds like the neighbor at the end of the bar who knows beer cold and would never tell you that.

01

NEIGHBORHOOD D-PROUD

References place specifically. Not 'Wisconsin' — Riverwest, East Side, the Beerline. The brand belongs to a block.

02

PLAINSPOKEN

Short sentences. Real words. No tasting-note theater unless we're describing actual hops.

03

SELF-AWARE

Willing to wink at itself. The Laverne & Shirley sing-along on the tour is on-brand. So is the 'pallets/palates' pun on dive beer.

04

EARNEST ABOUT CRAFT

When talking about ingredients, sustainability, certifications, awards — drop the smirk. Be straight. Forty years of firsts deserve a serious sentence.

05

HOSPITABLE

The Beer Hall voice. Pull up a stool. Here's what you should try. Always one notch warmer than the category.

Same voice. Different volume.

CHANNEL	DIAL	HOW IT SHOWS UP
CANS / PACKAGING	Loudest	Confident, short, distinctive. Front of can earns the shelf. Lead with name + style.
BREWERY TOUR & BEER HALL	Warmest	The fullest expression of voice. Funny, hospitable, irreverent. Think tour-guide, not corporate.
SOCIAL	Most personal	Conversational. Replies sound like a person, not a press release. Inside jokes welcome.
WEB	Most useful	Helpful and well-organized. Beer specs, tour times, where to find us. Search-friendly.
WHOLESALE / SELL SHEETS	Most factual	Plainspoken, fact-forward. ABV, IBU, format, awards, points of difference. Distributors don't read paragraphs.
EVENTS / RELEASE COPY	Most playful	Lean into the fun: Drag Queen Bingo, Spelling Bee Showdown, Maifest, Forum Fun Nights. Names on the calendar are part of the brand.

Five lines that sound right. Five that don't.

DO

Born in Riverwest. Raised all over.

Our flagship. Milwaukee's, too.

First gluten-free beer in America. Still the standard.

A beer reserved for the highest class, most discerning pallets.

Yes, the polka band is real. Yes, you should come Friday.

DON'T

Crafted with passion since 1987.

An iconic American craft amber lager experience.

A delicious gluten-free option for those with dietary needs.

An accessible everyday lager for value-conscious consumers.

Join us for an authentic Bavarian experience.

How it should read.

A campaign-ready headline bank, written in the voice. Five product moments, five different jobs.

RIVERWEST STEIN

"Same beer. Same neighborhood. Same answer to 'what should I get?'"

IPA

"Old school. On purpose."

NEW GRIST

"We didn't add a gluten-free beer. We invented the category."

RIVERWEST STEIN NA

"Less alcohol. Same Riverwest."

BUMBLE BEAR

"Wisconsin honey, in a can shaped like a bear with wings."

SECTION 05

Visual Identity.

Logo, color, typography, and the signature graphic devices that make Lakefront recognizable at thirty feet.

One mark. A working family.

The dark teal oval with the LB monogram and beer mug is the master mark. Everything else is a member of its family.

PRIMARY OVAL

Lakefront Brewery wordmark in the green-teal oval with LB monogram + beer mug. MILW / WISC framing. The default lockup — use whenever space allows.

LB MONOGRAM

Standalone LB + mug mark. Use when the wordmark won't fit, on tap handles, social avatars, merch hangtags, and as the social profile mark.

TAGLINE LOCKUP

Primary oval stacked with the 'Handcrafted Happiness' stamp. Use on packaging, posters, dealer-loaders, and brand-stamp moments.

ANNIVERSARY MARK

Time-bound seal (e.g., 35th Anniversary 1987–2022 with crossed oars). Pull out for milestone moments only — not a permanent lockup.

Source files: _LAKEFRONT LOGOS folder in the Graphics Dropbox. Use vector (.ai/.eps/.svg/.pdf) for print, .png for web.

Nine colors. A real system.

From Lakefront's existing color spec (Lakefront_Colors.jpg). All values approximated to Pantone references — confirm in the source file.

LAKEFRONT TEAL	HAPPINESS YELLOW	RIVERWEST RED	WISCONSIN GREEN	LAKE BLUE	MIDNIGHT NAVY	COOL GRAY 02	COOL GRAY 09	BLACK 6
PANTONE 5463 C	PANTONE 012 C	PANTONE 7621 C	PANTONE 377 C	PANTONE 7689 C	PANTONE 7693 C	PANTONE Cool 2	PANTONE Cool 9	PANTONE Black 6

USAGE

Lakefront Teal is the dominant brand color (60–70% visual weight). Yellow is the signature accent — use it like a stamp, not a wash. Red, Green, Blue, and Navy are reserved for SKU-level identity within the portfolio system.

Bold. Plainspoken. Built for cans.

DISPLAY

RIVERWEST

Heavy sans-serif. All-caps. Tight tracking. The typographic equivalent of the cans themselves — confident, immediate, no apologies.

BODY

Born in Riverwest. Raised all over. Handcrafted Happiness since 1987. America's Favorite Brewery Tour.

Body and supporting copy: a clean humanist sans for readability. Lakefront's web uses a modern geometric sans; for documents, Calibri or equivalent is the safe fallback.

Three things every can has in common.

The unifying devices that hold the portfolio together at shelf — even when individual SKUs go in wildly different visual directions.

CAUTION-TAPE STRIPE

A two-tone diagonal stripe band — usually yellow-and-white or red-and-white — sits at the bottom of every can. The single most consistent design device across the portfolio. Don't ship a Lakefront beer without it.

HANDCRAFTED HAPPINESS

HANDCRAFTED HAPPINESS STAMP

A stamp-style block treatment of the brand's signature line. Sits at the top of every can, just above the LB oval. Acts as the brand-level signature across an otherwise SKU-led packaging system.

ILLUSTRATED CHARACTERS

Every beer owns a character: rabbit, raven, bear, bee, swallow, pointer dog, ram skull, Wisconsin silhouette, sunburst face. Distinctive, recognizable, and the reason the cans win at shelf. Treat each as a mini-mascot.

Real Milwaukee. Real people.

PHOTOGRAPHY

Honest light

Available light, real interiors, real bars. Avoid studio polish that could belong to any brewery.

Real people, not models

Beer Hall regulars, brewers on the floor, neighborhood. The brand is its people — show them.

Place is the protagonist

The Beerline B building. Riverwest streets. The Milwaukee River. The bottling line. Specific over generic.

Heritage when it earns it

Sepia-toned founder portraits, archival 1990s ads, vintage tour materials — for credentials moments only.

ILLUSTRATION

One character per SKU

Each beer owns its mascot. Don't share characters across products. Don't introduce a new one for an existing SKU without a strategic reason.

Bold, flat, screen-printed feel

Heavy outlines, limited color, halftone or hand-pulled texture where it adds character. Not airbrushed, not photoreal.

Place when it matters

Riverwest neighborhood architecture (Riverwest Stein), East Side cathedral (Eastside Dark), Wisconsin silhouette (Weissconsin).

Wit, not whimsy

Royal Rabbit gets a crown. The Imperial Margarita swallow has flowers. The wink is in the detail, not the whole image.

SECTION 06

Brand Architecture.

How the portfolio fits together — and where each beer earns its shelf.

Master brand. Many expressions.

Favorites, classics, & old reliables.

Beyond the beer aisle.

Lakefront's most strategically interesting territory. Each adjacent line is its own audience and its own narrative.

NON-ALCOHOLIC

3 SKUs + variety pack

Riverwest Stein NA, Eastside Dark NA, Extended Play NA, plus Box of Cans NA. Riverwest Stein NA was Grand Champion at the 2024 USBTC.

STRATEGIC NOTE: Halo for the parent. Use NA wins to credentialize the master brand, not just the NA line.

GLUTEN-FREE

Category creator

New Grist (2006) was the first government-approved gluten-free beer in America. Now a full sub-portfolio: New Grist, IPA, Radler, Variety Pack.

STRATEGIC NOTE: Out-of-state wholesalers carry mostly the GF brands. This is its own brand surface for those markets.

THC BEVERAGE S

1 SKU, growing

High Jinx Lime Lemonade — 10mg Δ9-THC, hemp-derived. Lakefront's entry into the fastest-growing beverage category outside beer.

STRATEGIC NOTE: Stay on the same caution-stripe visual system so it reads as Lakefront, not as a separate brand.

ROOT BEER

Family-friendly halo

Golden Maple Root Beer. Available at the Beer Hall and through Distribution. The under-21 brand experience.

STRATEGIC NOTE: Use as the family-friendly entry point — particularly around tour traffic and the Beer Hall.

The brand isn't only on the can.

BEER HALL

1872 N. Commerce. The fullest expression of the brand. Polka, fish fry, beer-infused everything. Hosts Maifest, Drag Queen Bingo, Spelling Bee Showdown, Trivia, Forum Fun Nights.

AMERICA'S FAVORITE BREWERY TOUR

80,000+ visitors annually. The Laverne & Shirley sing-along is on-brand, not off-brand. Lakefront was 'one of the first — if not the first' to serve beer at the start, during, and after the tour.

CURD WAGON

The food truck. Nominated for Best Food Truck in Milwaukee. Treat as a parallel brand with shared DNA — caution-stripe styling, illustrated character, same voice, different audience occasion.

EVENTS BRAND

Maifest is the Midwest's largest gluten-free food festival. Curds à la Carte. Friend of WI State Parks. Each event is a brand asset — name, art, calendar slot.

SECTION 07

Application.

How the brand shows up in the wild — packaging, sell sheets, social, web, environment.

Anatomy of a Lakefront can.

1. Handcrafted Happiness stamp

Brand-level signature. Always at the top.

2. LB oval mark

Master brand mark in white field, top of can.

3. SKU color field

Each beer owns its color world. Hierarchy: name → style.

4. Illustrated character

Per-SKU mascot. The recognition moment at shelf.

5. Caution-tape stripe

Two-tone diagonal at base. Never optional.

6. Style descriptor + ABV

Plainspoken. ABV when relevant (low/high) — always for NA and session.

B2B is its own brand surface.

STANDARDS

- Fact-forward. Distributors don't read paragraphs.
- Lead with category-defining credentials (firsts, awards, certifications).
- Clear formats: ABV, IBU, package, UPC, plate.
- Beer photography = product hero. Lifestyle is secondary.
- GF and NA SKUs get their own sell sheets — and live in the GF Dropbox for out-of-state wholesalers.
- Always include the B Corp + Independent Craft seals.

REQUIRED ELEMENTS

- ☐ Product hero (can or 6-pack)
- ☐ Style descriptor + ABV / IBU / Plato
- ☐ Available formats (12oz can, 16oz can, draft, etc.)
- ☐ UPC + product code
- ☐ Malts / hops / adjuncts
- ☐ Awards (most recent + most prestigious)
- ☐ B Corp + Independent Craft seals
- ☐ GF certification (where applicable)

Different channels. One person.

SECTION 08

Strategic Recommendations.

What we'd do next — and why. The agency layer on top of the standards.

Don't repaint it. Re-mean it.

THE INSIGHT

Riverwest Stein didn't lose because amber lager went out of style. It lost because the shelf got louder and the can stayed quiet. The asset is uniquely defensible — a 38-year-old neighborhood-named amber lager with award credentials. The brief is to make it feel current without erasing what makes it distinctive.

THE MOVE

Position Riverwest Stein as 'the original, still.' Lean into the neighborhood specifically — Riverwest the place, not just the name. Use the NA expression as a halo (Grand Champion, 2024 USBTC). Don't try to make it a hazy IPA. The honest position is: the original. Still.

THE PROOF

Refresh, don't redesign, the can. Build a campaign around 'Find a Riverwest Stein!' (already a real Lakefront program). Lift Riverwest Stein into Beer Hall events the way Weissconsin gets a release party. Make the flagship feel like a hometown hero, not a legacy SKU.

Pick a lane. Then own it.

OPTION A • CLASSIC

Own "old school" on purpose.

- Hazy Rabbit covers hazy. Noon Game covers session. The house IPA fills the 'classic American IPA' gap.
- Honest. The recipe IS old-school — bitter, piney, balanced. Don't apologize for it.
- Differentiates against the entire hazy-saturated craft IPA shelf.
- Cheaper move — recipe stays put, the can and story do the work.

OPTION B • EVOLVED

Modernize the recipe + the can.

- Recipe brief: keep the bitterness, soften the pine, add modern hop character (Citra/Mosaic-adjacent).
- New can — keeps the iconic eye, modernizes typography, brighter color.
- Risk: alienates loyalists. Mitigation: keep the bitterness as the through-line.
- Bigger move. Bigger investment. Bigger upside if it lands.

OUR LEAN: Option A. The brand has earned the right to say 'old school, on purpose' without sounding defensive.

GF deserves its own brand surface.

THE CASE

Out-of-state wholesalers carry mostly the GF brands. For those drinkers, GF IS Lakefront.

That's a brand within a brand. It deserves its own sell-sheet system, its own dedicated wholesaler-facing creative, and its own seasonal calendar — not just a checkbox on the master Lakefront sheet.

THE RECOMMENDED SYSTEM

Dedicated GF master mark

A consistent GF lockup that pairs with the master Lakefront mark — not a swap-out, an addition.

GF-only sell sheets

Full set in the GF Dropbox (already exists structurally). Lead every sheet with 'First gluten-free beer in America.'

GF-specific events tie-in Maifest is already the Midwest's largest GF food festival. Lift that calendar moment into wholesaler-facing materials.

GF retailer toolkit

Shelf talkers, channel-specific banners, in-aisle case stackers for grocery accounts in non-Wisconsin markets.

SECTION 09

Roadmap.

What gets done in the first 90 days, the first six months, and the first year.

First 90. First 180. First 365.

0-90 DAYS

ALIGN

- Approve this brand guide as v1.0
- Confirm color values + typography against source files
- Onboard agency + in-house creative team to the system
- Audit current packaging for caution-stripe / stamp consistency
- Lock the IPA repositioning decision (Option A or B)

90-180 DAYS

BUILD

- Refresh Riverwest Stein creative — campaign + can refresh
- Build out the GF wholesaler-facing sell-sheet system
- Document Beer Hall & event brand standards
- Develop social content pillars + cadence with Andy
- Refresh sell-sheet template to reflect updated standards

180-365 DAYS

DEPLOY

- Launch Riverwest Stein campaign in market
- If Option B: deploy IPA recipe refresh + new can
- Roll out GF retailer toolkit in out-of-state markets
- Annualize event calendar as brand asset
- Q4 review: measure flagship trend reversal

What we need from you.

DROPBOX ACCESS

Confirmed access to the Lakefront Graphics Dropbox + GF Dropbox for source-file verification.

ONE WORKING SESSION

Two hours with the in-house team (Andy, Mike, Dylan) to walk through this guide and stress-test it against day-to-day work.

OWNER PER WORKSTREAM

Decide who owns each roadmap item internally. The agency can lead, but every item needs an internal owner.

DECISION AUTHORITY

Lock the IPA decision (A vs. B) — that one choice unblocks 60% of the next 180 days of creative work.

ACCESS TO THE BEER HALL

Brand stewardship doesn't stay on a deck. We want to spend a Friday in the Hall — fish fry, polka, the works — to ground every decision in the actual brand experience.

HANDCRAFTED HAPPINESS.

Thank you.

Let's go reverse a trend line.
